Felt? It was. It absolutely was. He accused me of using profanity. He was reprimanding me, correcting me, and telling me who shouldn't speak at public comment.

Once again you choose not to take responsibility for something that is your responsibility. Do not tell me this was something that I felt. This was something that he did, and I am making a formal complaint and want to see a copy of the complaint which then needs to be placed in his personnel file.
